Uprisings Spreading In Russia

STOCKHOLM, March 26.—An anti-Soviet uprising is reported to have occurred in Kazan, about 550 miles east of Moscow, on the Volga, according to dispatches received here today. Some members of the extraordinary commission in the city are said to have been killed, and the commission's headquarters, burned. Many other Soviet officials have been killed, it is declared.

The insurgents, the advisers state, are masters of the entire city and vicinity and have ordered a general mobilization in the district.

In western Russia and anti-Soviet movements also are reported. Fighting in White Russia between Soviet troops and peasants is continuing, and Polov is said to be in the hands of revolutionists. The White Russian peasants have been reinforced by deserters from the Red Guard, the message asserts.

Another disturbed section is said to be the Minsk region, where conflicts between soldiers and insurgents are reported raging, the revolutionary activities so far having resulted, it is asserted in twenty Soviets in various parts of the region being driven out.

Early Return Of German Property To Owners Favored By Alien Property Custodian

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 25.—The early return to their rightful owners of vast amounts of German property held in the United States appears to be in prospect. Congressional action is necessary before the transfer can be made but the trend of opinion in the Harding administration is toward giving back what was seized as a war measure.

Meanwhile the policy of the new alien property custodian, Col. Thomas W. Miller, as explained by the writer today, is to settle up as quickly as possible all questions for which authority is vested in him under existing laws.

"There are some enemy insurance companies," he said, "which will probably have to be operated by us for some years to come but most of these companies can be liquidated at once and the proceeds returned to the German owners. It is unlikely that they (Continued on Page Six)

Irvin Shrewsbury Cobb Nominated For Colonel

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 26.—Irvin Shrewsbury Cobb, better known as Irvin S. Cobb, noted humorist and lecturer, who served his native state with distinction as a colonel on the staff of Governor A. O. Stanley, has been nominated for a commission as his former rank. Governor Edwin P. Morrow announces that when Mr. Cobb arrives here April 3, he will be called back into service and commissioned a colonel.

NO TRACE OF MISSING BALLOONISTS

PENSACOLA, FLA., March 26.—On the theory advanced by Lieutenant W. F. Reed, instructor in meteorology at the naval station here, that the naval balloon missing since it left here Tuesday evening, with five men aboard, could not have drifted to sea in the fact of southerly winds prevailing where it was last reported, a naval dirigible with two days' supplies and a double crew aboard left here early today to search the forests of west Florida.

Meanwhile, seaplanes and naval vessels continued their search of the coast and in some instances ventured far to sea in an effort to find a trace of the balloon or its occupants.

Lieutenant Reed believes that the crew of the drifting bag would have cut away the basket to prevent it dropping into the gulf and would have taken refuge in the rigging. A carrier pigeon which arrived here with a message from the aeronauts, stated that the balloon was 20 miles at sea off St. Andrews Bay Wednesday night and that the bag was sinking and then about 100 feet above the water. If the basket had been cut away, Lieutenant Reed said the bag would have risen and he believes that the prevailing winds would have blown inland. He added that the bag, if it reached land, might have come in contact with a tree, on descending, causing the injury of the men, or that they might have been brushed from it by the tree tops.

Crown Forces Engage In Reprisals

WESTPORT, COUNTY TAYLOR, IRELAND, March 26.—Panic-stricken residents here early today when crown forces engaged in reprisals for a recent ambush near here. There was continuous gun fire in various parts of the town for several hours. Houses and shops were wrecked with bombs and furniture and other effects were burned. For several days past many persons have been sleeping outdoors in anticipation of reprisals.

Greeks Claim Successes Against Turks

ATHENS, March 26.—Continued success against the Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor are reported from the Ushak and Brussa fronts, according to an official statement issued here. "The Greeks, it is declared, are not encountering much resistance in their advance toward Eskishehr. "On Thursday," says the statement, "the Greeks continued to advance in the Ushak sector. The enemy, who feebly resisted, was driven back from a fortified ridge between Agar and Bonnar to a line about thirty miles east of Ushak. Two hundred of the enemy were taken prisoners. "In the Brussa sector, the enemy was driven from positions east of the city, and the Greeks occupied a line running through the villages of Glouneh, Verdeli and Diledjli about six miles from the town. The Greek losses have been insignificant."

Fighting Continues In German Towns

BERLIN, March 26.—Twenty rioters were killed when the security police in Eisleben repulsed an attack upon the Eisleben city hall last night. The police casualties were two killed and three wounded.

Sporadic fighting was reported today from Hettstedt and Mansfield. Leuna was reported quiet.

PARIS, March 26.—The Communist agitation in Munich is continuing, according to dispatches to the foreign office, which report the breaking up by the police of a procession displaying red flags.

Another message says that rioters broke into the railroad station at Breslau and carried off the cash box.

BERLIN, March 26.—Order has been restored at Eisleben and Hettstedt, it is announced by the German government. The rioters at Hettstedt blew up the railroad station however, before they retired to the hills surrounding the town and set up machine guns, which are reported to be firing at security police in the city.

Halle was quiet last night, it was reported, and Municipal and utility plants were again in operation. Organizations known as "councils of action" are being organized at Bitterfeld. Government troops have not participated in the operation of suppressing Communist rioting in central Germany, it is officially declared, and the work of restoring order has been carried on by Prussian security police and local organizations.

Communist Rioters Reinforced

HALLÉ, SAXONY, March 26.—Reinforcement of the Communist rioters at Mansfield and Eisleben was in progress this morning. Armed workmen were moving from Halle and vicinity in the direction of these two towns. Their declared purpose was to join their comrades, notably the party which after many hours of fighting had been driven out of Eisleben to the security police.

According to information from both police and communist quarters the purpose of the movement was the surrounding of the police at Eisleben. The fugitives from Eisleben were reorganizing today on the hills north-west of that town, communists here reported.

"The security police," however, are said to have routed the Eisleben fugitives when they sought to entrench themselves today. The communist forces had blown up the railway station, and were reported to be in control of the situation in the region was regarded as threatening.

Here in Halle, which is credited with housing the communist committee directing the Saxon revolt, conditions were growing more tense today. The town so far has remained quiet. An effort was on foot among the working men to bring on a general (Continued on Page Six)

Keep Your Eye On The Weather While On The Easter Parade Sunday

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—Weather for the annual Easter fashion parades was forecast today by the Weather Bureau.

An unexpected storm of marked intensity, with its fall, swinging low over southeastern Colorado, caused a revision of preliminary forecasts of state weather, tomorrow. The storm is sweeping east-northeastward and pressure was high today off the Atlantic coast and high and rising rapidly in the northwest.

Elsewhere the weather was actually bad, with showers and thunder storms in New York state, the Great Lakes region and lower Missouri valley. There were light rains and snow in the northwest. In Montana and North Dakota, the temperature dropped below zero.

Everywhere east of the Mississippi river there were promises of unsettled weather and showers over Sunday. Some sections may escape, but there was no comfort on the map. In California there were storm warnings. Only Florida from which the winter vacation throngs are scurrying home, showed "fair tonight and Sunday."

Guarantees Required Of Russia By U. S. Virtually Bar Early Resumption Of Trade Relations

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—Conditions laid down by the state department as prerequisite to any resumption of trade relations between this country and Soviet Russia, while dealing exclusively with the economic facilities of the Soviet system, were regarded today as striking so fundamentally at its entire structure as to have ended practically all possibility of an early resumption of commercial intercourse between the two countries.

In a note yesterday replying to the recent Soviet message to this government proposing a re-opening of trade relations, Secretary Hughes declared the United States could not consider such a course until fundamental changes had been made in the economic system underlying the Soviet regime. Safety of human life, guarantee of property rights, free labor and observance of the sanctity of contracts were among the requirements laid down.

Only by meeting these requirements, the statement said, could Russia hope to achieve economic rehabilitation and rebuild her foreign trade.

Issued by Secretary Hughes at the conclusion of a two hour discussion of the Russian question at yesterday's cabinet meeting, the statement which was transmitted to the American consul at Reval for delivery to the Soviet authorities was regarded as having the solid backing of the administration in defining the nation's future policy in dealing with the Bolshevik government.

POST CARD ISSUE IN BERGDOLL DECISION

KANSAS CITY, MO., March 26.—Whether mailing of a post card constituted sufficient notification of a summons to the colors under the selective draft act, is the principal point involved for decision in habeas corpus proceedings on call in federal court at Kansas City, Kansas, today to bring about release from prison of Edwin Bergdoll, of Philadelphia.

Bergdoll, brother of Grover C. Bergdoll, draft evader now in Germany, is serving a five year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, following his conviction by court martial on charges of failing to report for military duty during the war.

It is expected the decision will determine whether several thousand altered "sneakers" will be brought to trial. Bergdoll contends that he never received notice to report for military service. The government seeks to introduce evidence proving that a post card notice was mailed to Bergdoll, and that proof of mailing is all that is required.

Bergdoll's attorneys seek to prevent the introduction by the government of this testimony, claiming that it is not properly admissible in habeas corpus proceedings.

Defense attorneys say they expect to prove that the court martial was invalid because the record fails to show that Bergdoll received a draft.

8 SEPARATE CHARGES AGAINST EACH ONE

CHICAGO, March 26.—One hundred and forty-four indictments naming eighteen men were returned by the Cook county grand jury as a result of the second investigation into the alleged throwing of the 1919 world series to Cincinnati by Chicago White Sox players. Eight separate indictments against each person were returned.

The indictments named the thirteen men indicted at the first investigation and also five men charged with taking part in arranging the alleged conspiracy. These men were Carl Zook and Ben Franklin, of St. Louis; Ben and Louis Levi, said to be from Des Moines, and David Zeller, address unknown.

The men re-indicted were: Eddie Clement, pitcher, who confessed to receiving $5,000 to throw games.

Joe Jackson, outfielder, who confessed to receiving $5,000.

Fred McMullin, utility infielder.

Chick Gandil, first baseman.

Swede Risberg, short stop.

BAR ASSOCIATION PAYS TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF GEO. D. SCUDDER

Members of the Seaboard County Bar Association eulogized the memory of a highly esteemed departed colleague, the late George Drake Scudder, whose recent death cast a pall of gloom throughout the city, at a memorial in the Common Pleas courtroom at four o'clock Friday afternoon when resolutions, drafted by a special committee paying beautiful tribute to the departed member and voicing the sentiment of the association were unanimously adopted.

Judge J. P. Purdum, president of the association, was chairman of the meeting which was attended by a representative number of the attorneys of the local bar. After stating the object of the meeting Judge Purdum said the association was ready to receive the report of the special committee.

Judge A. T. Holcomb, as chairman of the committee, arose and read the following beautifully worded tribute to the splendid man who recently passed away:

Portsmouth, O., Mar. 15, 1921.

To The Bar Association of the City of Portsmouth, O.

Your committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the death of George D. Scudder report as follows: George Drake Scudder was born in Trenton, N. J., on Jan. 17, 1856. His father, Judge Edward Wallace Scudder, was a member of the Senate of New Jersey, and in 1869 became a Justice of the Supreme Court of that State, which position he held until his death in 1893. George D. Scudder graduated in the classical course at Princeton University in 1876; and in 1879 took the degree of Master of Arts in the same institution. He began the study of law at the close of his college course and in 1882 was admitted to the bar of New Jersey where he practiced until 1893. He was married on Nov. 20, 1879 to Harriet Helen Damarin of Portsmouth, O. He was at one time a member of the legislature of the State of New Jersey and served a short time as Prosecuting Attorney of Mercer County in that State. He located in this city in 1893 and was a charter member of this bar association.

All of his substantial work as a lawyer was done in New Jersey where he won considerable distinction. In 1903 ill health compelled him to retire and his later years were devoted to private business and to works of charity and philanthropy.

In the active practice of the law the lawyers here knew him but little, but that little portrayed to them the purely ethical practitioner of the old school—one searching after truth. His life was revealed and pictured as upon a screen by his long and sore affliction. The gloom thus cast over him only served as a brighter background for his fine qualities. Through days and nights of pain and suffering he hoped and toiled with infinite patience to prolong his useful life. But his suffering was never unmasked to his friends.

He was serious but never solemn. Perfect candor was his sword and shield. His words like mirrors gave perfect image of his thoughts. Always humorous, good natured, and reasonable. Above all, kindly, warm hearted, and sincere, he ever appeared to apologize for being more kindly than his fellows, and he did charitable things as stealthily as others commit crimes. Gentleness and tenderness were ever present in him. And when expressing his noblest sentiments and dispensing his kindly charities there always appeared in his manner that charming confusion which is ever the evidence of perfect modesty. But with this charming modesty, he brought to the discharge of every duty, vigilance, industry, integrity and fidelity.

No man's example can be more safely presented to the young. His was a character of warm sympathies, strong affection, and sterling integrity. His unblemished personality won the confidence, regard, and affection of all who knew him.

The old held him in the highest esteem, and the young adored and worshipped him.

His home life was ideal. As husband and father he was ever considerate, kind and loving.

It can all be summed up by saying that George D. Scudder was a cultured lawyer, a man of ripe learning, of unbounded love and charity, of inflexible honesty, a devoted lover of home, family, country and mankind.

In George D. Scudder we have lost a noble colleague and a Christian gentleman. His example is before us. It is worthy of all emulation.

Submitted:
Anselm T. Holcomb,
Geo. W. Osborn,
Arthur H. Bannan.

Your committee recommends that the foregoing resolution be adopted and made part of the records of this Association and submitted to the Court of Common Pleas of this county with the request that the same be entered on the journal of said court.

The motion received second and carried by a unanimous vote.

President Purdum then asked for remarks.

A number of members responded and added their personal tribute to Mr. Scudder as a man, citizen and attorney and his worth as a member of the association and its board of trustees.

A. H. Bannan wondered if those present had ever tried a law suit with Mr. Scudder. He told of being in a case in a magistrate's court with him and said that a striking characteristic of the man was his fairness in that he filed three briefs in the case and at the conclusion of each he reserved the right for further filing and accorded the same privilege to his opponent. He referred to the peculiar sensitiveness of the man, who he said respected the rights of others, denoting a fine disposition.

Judge Harry Ball related some experiences with Mr. Scudder in the first wet and dry campaign in Seaboard county and told of how close he kept in touch with conditions in the district of which he had charge during the campaign.

At this juncture Attorney E. G. Miller's motion to transmit a copy of the resolutions to the bereaved family and to furnish copies to the local press for publication was adopted.

Judge J. S. Thomas told of his personal experiences with Mr. Scudder and in most appropriate and eloquent words gave a splendid tribute to him. Referring to the resolutions adopted he said that the language used was most beautiful but the real beauty was that what was written was absolutely true. He said that no man had died in this city in the last 25 years whose death had brought more genuine expressions of sorrow and regret or who was held in higher esteem by persons in all walks of life. The judge finished his remarks by reciting from Dr. Samuel Johnson on "The Man."

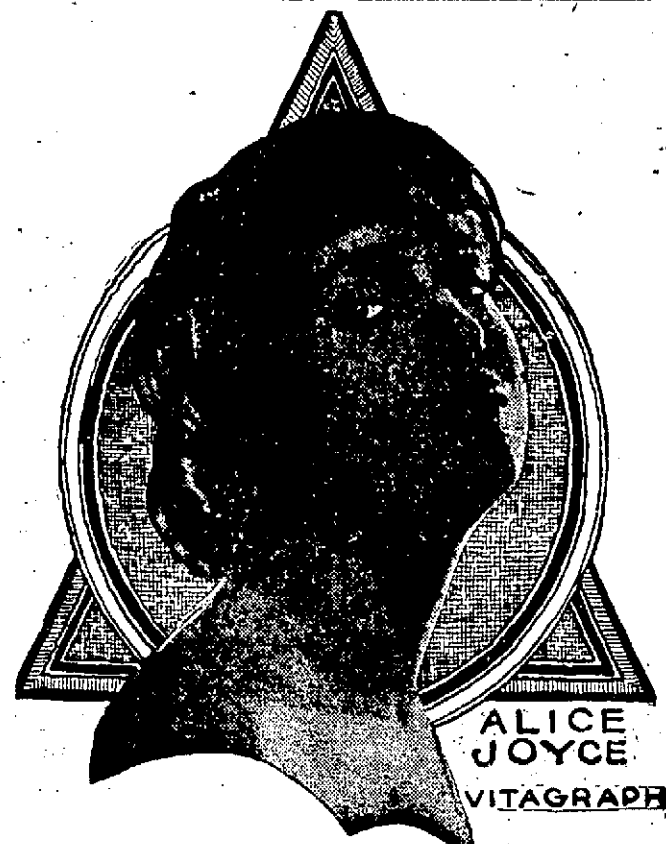

"His virtues walked their narrow No made a pause, nor left a void; And sure the eternal Master found The single talent well employed." T. C. Anderson followed and told of Mr. Scudder's connection with the organization of the Law Library serving with him on the original board with the late Judge Bannan and Judge Holcomb, relating the interest shown by Mr. Scudder in the early days of fitting out the library. He said the deceased was a model for the bar and all others.

Judge A. Z. Blair joined in the tribute to the departed attorney. He related a business conference with Mr. Scudder and that he found him filled with a desire to do right and it was a pleasure to do business with him. It was easy to adjust matters with a man like that. He spoke of the beauty of the resolutions in themselves and that they expressed the whole truth.

Judge Holcomb then spoke briefly of the fine attainments of Mr. Scudder, of his wide knowledge of literature and his splendid character and disposition, conscientious in everything that he did.

Judge Purdum closed the meeting with a very fine tribute and a brief sketch of Mr. Scudder's devotion to the schools of the city. The judge stated that he served with him on the Board of Education eight years and had learned to know him and love him. No man was more devoted to the schools and the school children than George D. Scudder, he said, and to him more than any other man the city owes regard for the splendid modern school buildings that are now an ornament and substantial use to this community and for the very excellent system of education.

Hello! Everybody, here's "Huckleberry Finn" come to life again in a wonderful Paramount Artcraft special production—Lyric Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.

The immortal tale of the boy who means boyhood to all mankind. How he lived in the little river town and the attempts to "civilize" him. How his "paw" came for the money Huck had found and stole Huck away. How he lived his little in the wild with his "paw" and finally managed to run away. How he met up with the runaway Jim and took up his life on his raft, while the village gave him up for dead. How he met the "King" and the "Duke" and all the escapades of these two rascals. How Tom Sawyer appeared on the scene and the wonderful adventures of the two boys of all boys in the world.

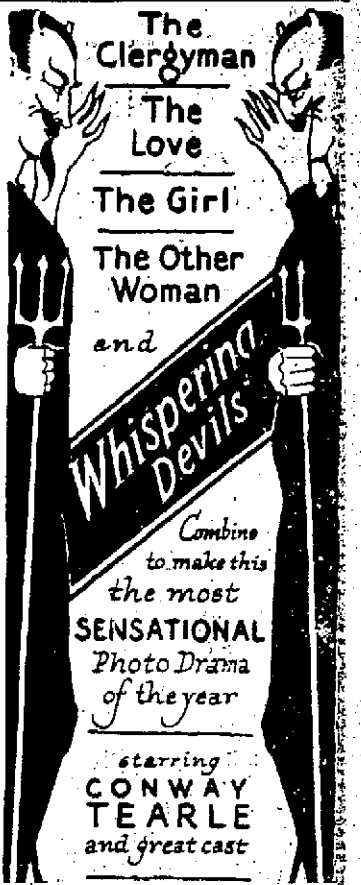

It's a tale to warm, to cheer, to laugh over, enjoy to its fullest. Such an entertainment as comes only once in a long, long time. Such an entertainment as you cannot afford to miss. Be sure and see it—it's a picture that will please the whole family—from baby to granddad.

Playing the Exhibit Theatre Tonight for the Last Time, the Photo-Dramatic Sensation, "Whispering Devils" With Conway Tearle and an All Star Cast of Players.

A photodrama that grips the spectator's interest and holds him spellbound from start to finish, is "Whispering Devils," a six-reel picture starring Conway Tearle and Rosemary Theby, adapted from the stage play of Henry Arthur Jones, the brilliant English playwright.

The action is laid in the suggestive, picturesque coast of Western England, and shows Michael Faversham, the village vicar, busily engaged in ministering to the religious needs of his parish. Audrey Lesden, a girl played to perfection by Rosemary Theby, comes into the life of Michael as a woman who is seeking forgetfulness of her unhappy, married life, by travel.

Gradually his love of Audrey Lesden becomes irresistible, and one night he meets her by chance all alone. He cannot control himself, and his passion gets the best of him. He is horrified to learn afterwards that Audrey is a married woman, undivorced, whose husband is still living. He cannot preach purity any more, and at the next service, he makes a public confession of his sin, just as he forced the girl to do previously. He leaves the parish and wanders among the poor, dispensing charity, while Audrey Lesden goes about broken-hearted. Suddenly news arrives that brings happiness to the lovers—it comes so suddenly that it leaves the spectators gasping with surprise, and makes one of the most powerful dramatic climaxes we have ever witnessed on the screen.

Dear Dolly—I would like a little advice on a very vexing matter. About a year ago a family moved into our neighborhood, and there is some strange conduct between the wife and another man. The man in question appears to be a friend of the husband's, and comes there and goes to work with him almost every day but sometimes he doesn't go to work and comes there as soon as the husband is gone and stays until nearly time for him to come to supper and goes away and comes back as soon as he leaves. We all think it strange but that is not all. She can be seen sitting on the front porch at such times patting him on his head and playing with his mustache and the kids peep at them and have a good time watching the performance. Now, Dolly, we object to our children seeing such things and we would like for you to advise us how to put a stop to it. Should we go to the husband or to the police? Please advise us.

SEVENTH STREET RESIDENTS.
From your letter it would seem that the woman referred to was putting something over on her husband. It is always difficult to inform a man of the infidelity of his wife unless one is a close friend. The woman has evidently forgotten the sacredness of her marriage vows. But after all, it would probably be best not to interfere unless the other man was told of the seriousness of his actions by some one.

Dear Dolly—I live in St. Louis and am visiting my sister indefinitely, as my husband is in New York on business trip. Our father is a minister and we are an old, respected, educated family, but my sister is a terrible puzzle to me. Father tried to influence her not to marry whom she did, a young fellow far beneath her, no education or family. She is artistic and an accomplished musician. I may as well confess it, I am jealous of her ability to take life as she does. She has been married fifteen years, is thirty-three years old, has six children, the eldest an invalid, does all her own work, finds time to be active in church and social circles, and still looks like a young girl. Her husband is poor.

Your Manners

IT IS CORRECT

For a woman who wishes to pay a first call and to extend an invitation at the same time to leave cards and the invitation at the door, if she wishes.

When unable to accept an invitation left in this manner to leave cards within a fortnight after the entertainment.

To leave cards on the bride's mother within two weeks after the wedding, to which only an invitation to witness the church ceremony was received.

To leave cards on the bride's mother within two weeks after receiving cards in announcement of a wedding.

When entertained as a member of a club by a lady who may scarcely be called an acquaintance, to leave cards within two weeks after the occasion.

IT IS NOT CORRECT

For friends of the bridegroom who are strangers to the bride's family, to call upon the bride's mother after the wedding. Cards should be left at the door.

For any but a person in mourning to leave black bordered cards upon a bereaved family. To omit to leave cards not only immediately after a death but again shortly after the funeral.

When making frequent calls of inquiry upon a sick person, to leave a card each time.

For a young man who is calling upon a young lady in whose home he has lately been entertained, to omit to leave a card for her mother or chaperone as well as one for his host and the young lady herself, if she is not at home.

THE KINGDOM OF BLESSING

For nearly nineteen centuries Christians have looked forward to the establishment of the Messianic Kingdom. Jesus taught His disciples to pray "Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth." This Kingdom and the method of its establishment; how it is guaranteed by the resurrection of Jesus and the nature of its blessings will be the subject of the Sunday evening Bible lecture in Bible Students hall by N. D. Edwards.

The public is invited. There will be no collection or money solicitation, the object of the lecture being solely to assist all to come to a better understanding of the Divine promises and arrangements.

TO ADMINISTER SACRAMENT OF BAPTISM

Easter at Bigelow will begin with the Sunday school session, when a full attendance is looked for in every class. Let no teacher be disappointed by your absence. At the morning church service Rev. C. E. Chandler will preach and administer the Sacrament of Baptism to infants. There will be special music. Lives have been consecrated, conversions have been registered, hearts warmed and hopes renewed. It will be a glorious Easter morn in Bigelow. We look for you.

HOUR OF SERVICES 7:30 And 9:30 A. M.

Easter Sunday at both Masses Holy Redeemer church, with impressive celebration will fittingly observe the great glorious feast.

The choir of well trained voices in artistic and inspiring manner will render Hayden's Mass.

The church choir will blend their sweetest notes with the universal choirs of heaven and earth in proclaiming the joyful tidings of Christ's resurrection, the glorious hope and boon destined by the Savior for all mankind. The main altar of the beautiful sanctuary adorned with illuminated crosses, many fragrant flowers, potted plants and lighted tapers in whole and in part will march silently but eloquently the great fact of Christ's glorious victory over the grave and all the powers of darkness. The lighted Easter candles made of pure bees wax, punctuated with five red nails of incense in the form of a cross, symbolical of Christ, the light of the world, mutually proclaiming from its prominent place in the sanctuary, that the Savior by His resurrection, triumphed over death, sin, error and hell, and opened the gates of eternal life for all of His faithful followers. The congregation and pastor of Holy Redeemer church, in happy union with three hundred millions of brethren scattered over the earth with solemn credo holy mass and sacrament, will proclaim the same grand old faith which has for all ages, in all places and all conditions conspicuously marked her as the ever-living, visible and divine witness to Christ's sufferings, death and resurrection. She saw Him suffer, she saw Him die, and saw Him raise Himself to life from the dead. She heard Him, who gave her divine commission, say "I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in me although dead shall live. Every one that liveth and believeth in me shall not die forever."

It is a beautiful custom of Catholics all the world over on Easter Sunday to remember their respective pastor by generous personal offerings.

BILLY WHISKER

Two weeks had passed since the fair had been first spoken of, and tomorrow was to be the opening day. The exhibition was to continue for one week.

Such exercises, running, rubbing, currying and bandaging of legs as went on in the stables to get fleet in condition for the races, you never heard of, for his slender limbs had to be guarded against too much strain and kept cool and moist after exercising.

As for the hogs that were being fattened, they declared that if they ate another ear of corn they would surely burst, and that they now knew too much thing as ease and comfort, for they were so fat and lazy, they could not bear to move and they felt more stupid and uncomfortable every day.

When they were obliged to root around for their feed they felt much better as it gave them exercises and kept them in good health and spirits.

Their judgment on this subject was sound, for too much food and ease makes hogs stupid and lazy, just as it makes people irritable and ill.

The geese and ducks complained in the same way and said they would be glad when the fair was over, for they were tired of being cooped up in a little pen with only one small trough in which to swim. They much preferred wandering over the farm at will, eating grasshoppers and flies to such good care being taken of them that they were not required to make a single effort for themselves.

"We thought it would be fine," they said, "to have nothing to do but eat, sleep and bask in the sun, but this was when we first heard that we were going to be shut up. Now we are heartily tired of it, and if you, Mr. Billy Whisker, would kick or hook off a pond of this fence, so that we could get out, we would certainly be very much obliged to you."

"Well, I don't know but you are right, Mr. Gobbler. I know that I am a crusty, impatient old fellow and I would like to oblige you, but to do that I would have to let Mr. West a bad man and then I would surely get locked up myself for interfering with other people's business. If it were not for this I would willingly butt down this fence for you."

"Billy! Billy! What are you doing over there? Are you eating the turkey's feed? called Violet.

(Tomorrow you will hear more of the preparation for the fair.)

Her Own Career

(BY PHYLIS PHILLIPS)

A LETTER FROM JOHN
June arrived in a glow of warmth and beauty, and June found Gwendolyn hard at work on the Daily News and more in love with her work than she had ever dreamed possible.

The paper had featured her articles daily and already she had established a reputation for herself in the few weeks that she had been on the staff. Sam Davis was pleased as punch with his "find."

"Always told you fellows I could pick a winner every time," he announced at a conference one day when Gwendolyn had been a week or so with them and already he had in her column. "That girl is as bright as a steel trap, and she's got the personality that can get her anywhere. She'll be heard from yet, mark my words."

Of course, Gwendolyn had the entire staff of male reporters at her feet. One and all were her admirers, and she found it rather difficult to keep to the even tenor of her ways with so much attention and adulation on every side. With very good sense, however, she steered her bark clear of all reefs and wrecks and was uniformly polite and friendly with each of them. Hence there were no aching hearts, nor internal jealousies. Davis gave her the best assignments possible, and Gwendolyn, herself, thought up a good story or two for her own.

Her interviews became well known to the readers of The Daily News, and her heart beat a bit faster every day when she saw her name and picture featured above her work, even after a month of it. Time and again she mentally blessed John Neale for encouraging her to write, as he had done, and time and again she grieved, deep down within her, at the thought that he was too far away to share her success, as only he would and could.

Languine delight, when one morning at breakfast time she read a letter from him, in which he referred to the new writer on The Daily News—Vivian Miles—and ended by saying that "she certainly had them all skinned a mile."

Gwendolyn smiled at this measure of praise from a distance of three thousand miles, then shook her head ever so slightly as she went on with the letter and read that he was about to step over to gay Paree and have a little fling. "It was due him, he'd said, for he had been working very hard, with scarcely any time for play."

Again Gwendolyn felt that queer contraction round her heart and she was silent for the rest of the meal, a rare thing for her.

"What's the matter, hon?" queried Fern. "Don't you feel well, or have you had some bad news. You look as solemn as the grave."

"Nothing much, only I have so much work to get through today that I hardly know where to begin. I'm trying to nap out my time a bit, now, before I leave," she answered evasively.

"Didn't Fedyka look worried and tired last night, Gwendy?" I thought he was ill. Poor fellow."

"I suspect his Natalie is in town again," said Gwendolyn, absent-mindedly. "Of course he wouldn't tell us, 'cause he knows that we would be worried about a new visit from her during the night. But you can just bet she's devilish him."

AND THEN HE MADE A HOLE IN ONE — BY BRIGGS

Kennedy Dies From Burns

Injuries suffered in a powder blast in a coal mine in which he was working near Nantuxat, W. Va., proved fatal to William, who was better known as "Pizen Bill" Kennedy, as he passed away in Schirman hospital at 2 o'clock this morning. He was burned from the top of his head to the soles of his feet and also inhaled some of the flames. He was in a precarious condition when brought to the hospital early Friday morning. However he rallied during the day and it was thought he would recover.

Early this morning he suffered a sinking spell and it soon ended in his death.

Kennedy was 37 years old and was a son of Daniel and Francis Kennedy, who reside at 412 Market street. He is also survived by the following sisters and brothers: Thomas of East Liverpool, Dan of Columbus, F. C. of New Boston and Mrs. Lizzie Heller of Columbus, Mrs. Vera Connor of Columbus and Mrs. Etta E. Nouse of this city.

Kennedy had been working in Nantuxat for two months. The powder blast in which he suffered fatal injuries also seriously burned three other men. He was especially well known in the West End, where he spent most of his life.

Communists Driven Out

OBERRHEIN, PRUSSIAN SAXONY, March 26.—Reports that the Communist forces which have been fighting in Elsieben against the German police for three days had been driven out of that city were brought here last night by men, breathless from running the 12 miles which lie between Elsieben and this little Saxon village. They said that the Communist were retreating across the fields, for the most part, in good order, but some had thrown away their guns and others had been taken prisoners.

The tidings were received without emotion by men and boys who stood rifles in hand, ready to report for duty to the commander of the communists. In a few minutes, however, these men and boys began to straggle away, apparently to join their Communist comrades in another stand against the police.

One of the refugees from Elsieben said to the correspondent last evening: "You haven't this sort of fighting in America have you? Things must go better there."

Women Return To City

He said that women who had been camping in the outskirts of Elsieben day and night since fighting began there, entered the city immediately after rifle firing ceased.

"They would have gone earlier," he added, "but the workmen would not permit them to go in. The women do not have much interest in the world revolution. To them the light-at Elsieben was just a row between workmen and the 'Green Police'."

Members of the Communist forces which were in virtual control of Elsieben permitted the correspondent to enter that city yesterday between bursts of firing but they were unwilling to escort him back, saying that the only conveyances available were in the hands of the police and that capture was probable. The correspondent, however, succeeded in securing an automobile, and left the town, but as bullets began striking the road around the machine, the chauffeur fled, and the correspondent walked as far as Oberrehen.

Communications Cut Off

After his experiences in Elsieben, and scenes of blood shed and violence, the correspondent found this little village particularly peaceful. In spite of the fact that heavy fighting was going on, only a few miles away church bells were ringing here last evening, women were praying in the churches and children were laughing and playing in the streets. All communications between this town and Elsieben have been cut off, and automobiles cannot be secured to go to Elsieben until the full price of the machine engaged is deposited. As a consequence of this interruption of traffic there is a food shortage here.

Dividends Declared

MIDDLETOWN, O., March 26.—At the regular monthly meeting of the directors of the American Rolling Mill Company, held at the general offices here yesterday, the regular quarterly dividend of 1.34 percent was declared on the preferred stock and the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share was declared on the common stock, payable on April 15, to holders of record as of March 31.

Analysis of the statement shows the net current assets equivalent to $141 per share on the preferred stock and the total net assets equivalent to $345.68 per share on the preferred stock. The common stock shows a book value of $42.20.

The financial statement for the year 1920 shows $1,437,000.22 in earnings after deducting for federal taxes and cash dividends. The surplus for the year is $180,743.27.

Early Return

would wish to operate as German concerns again and again.

No Pro-German Leanings

Col. Miller was drafted for the job of alien property custodian by President Harding because of his remarkable executive ability. He won his military rank overseas, having enlisted as a private and working up to the staff of General Kahn of the 70th Division. President Harding felt that in appointing Col. Miller, who has been active in the affairs of the American Legion there could be no suspicion of pro-German leanings in any of his decisions.

Anybody who talks with Colonel Miller on the subject of enemy property, however, will find that he believes the time is ripe to give back the German owners the property that was taken from them. He is loath to criticize his predecessors in the alien property custodian's office but he has already instituted some sweeping changes.

Wants American Fair Play

The new alien property custodian has found, for instance, large lawyers' fees charged to the yearly proceeds of certain companies now held by American trustees and has made up his mind that all excessive charges shall be reduced whether Republican or Democrat law firms are involved. Colonel Miller believes that it is the American spirit to be fair to individuals even though they be Germans.

Already there has been many cases settled which would have required prolonged litigation. The policy of the new administration is to spare litigation and bring about early settlements so that business may proceed for which many concerns are of enemy ownership. They employ American citizens. The revival of trade and commerce depends to no small extent upon the restoration of millions of dollars worth of property to their lawful owners.

May Use It As A Collateral

Of course the transfer of all this property back to the Germans is predicated on the assumption that the German government will pay the claims lodged by American citizens who lost relatives in the sinking of the Lusitania or who lost property in Germany during the war. The expectation is that Germany will settle these claims but if not then it is planned to liquidate as much of the assets of Germans in this country as possible and use the proceeds to pay American citizens who suffered at the hands of the Germans. One of the difficulties, however, from the German viewpoint is that France and the allied powers have a prior claim on any money that Germany may have available to pay war claims and unless America can reach an agreement with the associated powers on that point, the only way the United States government can avoid using the German assets in this country is to make a loan to Germany out of which claims would be paid. This, however, would be definitely decided when the American government begins negotiations with Germany on the settlement of all questions growing out of the war. Congressional action will necessarily be delayed somewhat until foreign relations are cleared up. Meanwhile banking groups in New York are back of a plan whereby the assets of the Germans held in this country shall be used as a basis of credit for the immediate resumption of trade with Germany when peace is finally made. Assuming that the Berlin and Washington governments have reached a settlement on war claims, the early return may be expected of the German property or the use of as much of it as collateral as may be sanctioned by the German citizens in cooperation with the German government.

by the state on the grounds that there was insufficient evidence available to convict. The cases against the other men indicted last fall were taken off the court roll.

Each indictment today contained three counts, charging conspiracy to defraud obtaining money under false pretenses and conspiracy to do an illegal act. Bonds were fixed at $3,000 for each indictment or $24,000 for each man. Robert B. Crowe, state's attorney, announced after the indictments were returned that he already had started extradition proceedings against the men named and that every effort would be made to apprehend them at once.

There will be no jokes about this investigation, and no dropping of charges brought in these indictments, said Mr. Crowe. "We have proceeded carefully, to make sure of every detail, and we will not miss our mark—which is penitentiary sentences for the men who are found guilty."

Mr. Crowe refused to say when the men might be brought to trial but indicated that the trial would not start immediately.

Implicates Others In Robbery

CLEVELAND, O., March 26.—Sam Purpera, 17 years old, who was arrested in Los Angeles, California, recently and returned here last night in custody, was to be arraigned in criminal court today charged with the first degree murder of Wilfred C. Sly on December 31, when Sly and G. E. Panuier were murdered by a gang of pay roll bandits.

Officers who brought Purpera back from the west say he confessed to being a member of the gang and present when the $4,300 robbery was committed but denied he fired any of the shots or received any of the loot.

Purpera last night named three men as accomplices in the robbery after he had gone over the pictures in the regents' gallery. One of the men is an inmate of the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, convicted of auto stealing. Cleveland officers will go to Columbus today to bring this prisoner here.

Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of Six (6) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the 1st day of November and May, in each year, except the last year, when they are to be paid on the presentation and surrender of the several coupons which shall be attached to said bonds, and the faith and credit of the City of Portsmouth, are hereby pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds.

SECTION II. Said bonds shall be executed under the face the purpose for which they are issued, and they are hereby authorized to be prepared, issued and delivered under the direction of the Finance Committee of Council and the City Auditor and shall be signed by the Mayor of said City and the City Auditor and sealed with the corporate seal of said City; and the interest coupons attached to said bonds shall be signed by the City Auditor with his signature thereto or a printed seal similar thereto, and shall be countersigned by the Finance Committee of Council and the City Auditor and sold in the manner provided by law for not less than their par value and accrued interest to date of delivery.

SECTION III. That the proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon, shall be placed in a special fund to be known as the "River Grade Improvement Fund" and shall be used for the purpose of paying the cost and expense of resurfacing, repairing and improving the Market Street River Grade Public Highway in the City of Portsmouth, and for no other purpose whatsoever. The premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the trustees of the Sinking Fund and shall be applied by them in the manner provided by law for the redemption of the bonds described in debt, upon the taxable property in the City of Portsmouth, a sum sufficient to pay the interest and sinking fund charges on the above described indebtedness; and such taxes to be made at the time provided by law for the levying of taxes for municipal purposes.

SECTION IV. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Early Return

would wish to operate as German concerns again and again.

No Pro-German Leanings

Col. Miller was drafted for the job of alien property custodian by President Harding because of his remarkable executive ability. He won his military rank overseas, having enlisted as a private and working up to the staff of General Kahn of the 70th Division. President Harding felt that in appointing Col. Miller, who has been active in the affairs of the American Legion there could be no suspicion of pro-German leanings in any of his decisions.

Anybody who talks with Colonel Miller on the subject of enemy property, however, will find that he believes the time is ripe to give back the German owners the property that was taken from them. He is loath to criticize his predecessors in the alien property custodian's office but he has already instituted some sweeping changes.

Wants American Fair Play

The new alien property custodian has found, for instance, large lawyers' fees charged to the yearly proceeds of certain companies now held by American trustees and has made up his mind that all excessive charges shall be reduced whether Republican or Democrat law firms are involved. Colonel Miller believes that it is the American spirit to be fair to individuals even though they be Germans.

Already there has been many cases settled which would have required prolonged litigation. The policy of the new administration is to spare litigation and bring about early settlements so that business may proceed for which many concerns are of enemy ownership. They employ American citizens. The revival of trade and commerce depends to no small extent upon the restoration of millions of dollars worth of property to their lawful owners.

May Use It As A Collateral

Of course the transfer of all this property back to the Germans is predicated on the assumption that the German government will pay the claims lodged by American citizens who lost relatives in the sinking of the Lusitania or who lost property in Germany during the war. The expectation is that Germany will settle these claims but if not then it is planned to liquidate as much of the assets of Germans in this country as possible and use the proceeds to pay American citizens who suffered at the hands of the Germans. One of the difficulties, however, from the German viewpoint is that France and the allied powers have a prior claim on any money that Germany may have available to pay war claims and unless America can reach an agreement with the associated powers on that point, the only way the United States government can avoid using the German assets in this country is to make a loan to Germany out of which claims would be paid. This, however, would be definitely decided when the American government begins negotiations with Germany on the settlement of all questions growing out of the war. Congressional action will necessarily be delayed somewhat until foreign relations are cleared up. Meanwhile banking groups in New York are back of a plan whereby the assets of the Germans held in this country shall be used as a basis of credit for the immediate resumption of trade with Germany when peace is finally made. Assuming that the Berlin and Washington governments have reached a settlement on war claims, the early return may be expected of the German property or the use of as much of it as collateral as may be sanctioned by the German citizens in cooperation with the German government.

by the state on the grounds that there was insufficient evidence available to convict. The cases against the other men indicted last fall were taken off the court roll.

Each indictment today contained three counts, charging conspiracy to defraud obtaining money under false pretenses and conspiracy to do an illegal act. Bonds were fixed at $3,000 for each indictment or $24,000 for each man. Robert B. Crowe, state's attorney, announced after the indictments were returned that he already had started extradition proceedings against the men named and that every effort would be made to apprehend them at once.

There will be no jokes about this investigation, and no dropping of charges brought in these indictments, said Mr. Crowe. "We have proceeded carefully, to make sure of every detail, and we will not miss our mark—which is penitentiary sentences for the men who are found guilty."

Mr. Crowe refused to say when the men might be brought to trial but indicated that the trial would not start immediately.

Implicates Others In Robbery

CLEVELAND, O., March 26.—Sam Purpera, 17 years old, who was arrested in Los Angeles, California, recently and returned here last night in custody, was to be arraigned in criminal court today charged with the first degree murder of Wilfred C. Sly on December 31, when Sly and G. E. Panuier were murdered by a gang of pay roll bandits.

Officers who brought Purpera back from the west say he confessed to being a member of the gang and present when the $4,300 robbery was committed but denied he fired any of the shots or received any of the loot.

Purpera last night named three men as accomplices in the robbery after he had gone over the pictures in the regents' gallery. One of the men is an inmate of the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, convicted of auto stealing. Cleveland officers will go to Columbus today to bring this prisoner here.

Gossip From The Capital City

(BY MARCUS)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 26.—Portage emergency tariffs in Washington and reorganization codes in Ohio are the main items upon which the esteemed Grand Old Party is to fare in the succeeding weeks. The medicine is all ready and no matter what many members think of the "quintessence" of the "doctors' order" and will be obeyed to the letter. The farmers are desperate, in Ohio as well as elsewhere, and will try anything. If their business gets better, they will give thanks and if it doesn't they will be more angry than they were when the rigid maximum prices were placed on their wheat. As for the reorganization, they will take it without hoping for relief from high taxes because the revenue problems of Ohio are not state but local and the state's budget is well cared for even in the times when maximum prices were placed on their wheat. As for the reorganization, they will take it without hoping for relief from high taxes because the revenue problems of Ohio are not state but local and the state's budget is well cared for even in the times when maximum prices were placed on their wheat.

As for the really big problem of taxation there is no progress to be made. From the chance of reorganization, the Governor is to be defended vigorously. He has never taken a real hand in it and is not likely to take any hand in it. He did appoint a committee of investigation as quick as he learned that Messrs. Tupper and Bradford, the three rural leaders who represented the "advanced thought" of the country organization and when it seemed that the program, carefully thought out by the interested persons was due to go sailing over the horizon. But the time when Representative John H. Chester of Tolland wrote his first proclamation which fell like a bombshell on a meeting of field marshals, his interest in the program began to wane. In a perfunctory way, he submitted the report and let it go at that. From that hour, there has been no interference from on high. Chester began to win converts among the lawmakers as fast as Billy Sunday makes them among sinners. One after another they came to the uniform side mouners' bench and the fellows who were weak in the faith became regular apostles of belief in the time-honored and consistently-violated principle of one valuation and one rate for all classes of property.

Of course, there may be old-fashioned, old fogies, so to speak, who will insist that the Governor's duty is to act in supreme crisis, like that of taxation. How little they know of modern government of the 1921 model! The thing to do is to build up power and care for the fellows who helped when help was desperately needed. Let us put fix them on the payroll, these swears and bloodstained ward heelers, and the taxation question may wait. Upon this fundamental basis, Washington and Columbus are in full accord, although the camp followers make faces at each other. Foreign relations, seemingly critical and the subject of the recent campaign are shoved aside for the old, old remedy of the tariff, while in Ohio, taxation is dropped to the cellar of legislative activity and the rush is made for the jobs. The proposals are the first efforts at statesmanship and represent the policy of merely ignoring disagreeable things, perhaps the best after all. Of course, the manner of doing things in the state of Ohio is a series of strikes, the talk is all about patronage and grabbing jobs. But the trusted Governor Harry L. Davis and the faithful have no thought of deserting him now.

As we said, progressive thought has already advanced the bill with the anti-referendum provision to the Supreme Court, in fancy. Still, there are a lot of interesting reactions going on down below, so to speak, in the state. For instance, there is Roland C. Davis, the brilliant young printer of Hamilton, who is the son of the Second-Fourth District. Mr. Davis has always associated with a crowd that was for the T and I and strongly for it. But what is one to do if his brother wants a job and the Governor with the bill in one hand and the job in the other? Take an answer that he can tell what the trouble with Senator will do. If he votes against the clause, it is a 17 to one shot that the honored member of the Davis family of Hamilton, Butler County, Ohio, will have but one name, not two on the state payroll. And so it goes. The advocates feel around for the "soft places" as they are called. Where ambition will, principle verily often weakens. Still there is the other side to it and the Senators talk of how they will make the child of destiny down in the Governor's office "come through" with a lot of stuff before they give him what he wants. While the hearings are going on, the bucksteering, as some one calls it, will be done. Get enough boys, say we. Get enough!

Just as many predicted, the Highways Department probe is stuck fast and does not seem to move a bit. This may be due to several causes the one of which one authors that made for the public being strangely at variance with the ones that float about the legislative chambers. There may be the best reasons in the world for calling off the inquiry but it is not from lack of witnesses, whatever the gentleman of the committee and his conferees may say. There are McKee County folks who are ready to give a book full of testimony and only this week, Representative R. P. Carson introduced a bill to permit two contractors to sue the state. These men are anxious to give their experiences to the committee and will have to find other methods of doing away as if they did not comprehend such nonsense. They said just what the Governor said that Mr. Burke himself had voted for the clause on the prohibition bill. They might have known better than to try to argue under any circumstances. And Burke's answer put the Governor up against it as he asked in good humor, "Were you not sincere about the clause and the emergency of prohibition enforcement? I was sincere on it. If you are not, why did you support the bill?" And it is no doubt true that this was a hard proposition to answer hurriedly like. Still what's the use of thinking when you have the votes?

Two actions of the House this week led some folks to shake their fists at the body excitedly. One of these was the kicking about of the proposed reforestation bills and the other was the lowering of the tariff on pure water bill. In behalf of this last one the Anti-Saloon League was not to be found. The Tally bill grew from the situation in Salem where typhoid fever broke out before any health authorities had been notified. The health authorities said that periodic examination of the water supply would have arrested the danger, but the House respected a few one horse private water companies and ignored the lives involved. Give them credit though for getting into the situation noiselessly and howling over the "healthers".

"Our Frankie" as they call Senator Frank B. Willis up Delaware was was one of the star orators at the big Madison Square Garden demonstration a few evenings ago and surely made the people a fine surprise. Whence and why the invitation came was not definitely set forth. It seemed to be assured, however, that he made all the people in the town to hear him and probably some on the outside. It no doubt was a delightful experience for the Senator even if it would offend many element that gave him a big majority last fall. The press accounts in the city gave the impression that he was rather mild in dealing with the Huns where others let go with full blast. Of course he did turn and read the League of Nations but seemed to think on the whole that the meeting was designed to frame a volley of criticism for the Democratic party and the former President. Well, may be it was but the other speakers did not so indicate. The Senator best be careful for Prof. W. H. Johnson, of Granville, who was once critical of him for his attitude in opposition to munition shipment to the Allies, is still on deck and has neither paralysis of the tongue nor of the pen.

Strange new perils confront the people of Ohio if report current around legislative halls are to be credited. The members have begun to assert that they say they have, sponsors of the pending McCoy bill designed to sever the connection that former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer reports he has found between beer and medicine. The measure of the Mahoning County Senator is designed to keep the men of medicine from prescribing beer for their ailing patients and to keep brewers from making it for the purposes indicated. It goes much further, however, and limits intoxicating liquors in doctors' prescriptions to ethyl or grain alcohol. The physicians say there is a great deal of cruelty in this proposition amounting really to a sentence of death to many persons for whom the physicians might leave small quantities of wine, brandy or whiskey, according to the patient's physical condition and tendencies. These alcoholics will fill the bill, it is argued. If members could take a secret vote, the beer bill would die, but it remains to be seen what will be done with it when it is tossed on the floor and the bad matters are brushed loose. Anyway, what are a few patients and their lives to the great moral principle of repression? They are as chaff, which the Bible tells us, "the wind bloweth away."

Coming from Adams county with only one or two "novels" where all the folk turn wood for fuel and where the only coal consumed is on the Norfolk and Western trains hurrying through, and where there are vacant houses, Representative C. F. McCoy, from that backwater, is a hefty lawbreaker. He has a bill to regulate the motion picture screens forbidding scenic portrayal of anything made a crime by the laws of Ohio through the House and he has one on coal profiteering pending in the House and now he has brought another regulating rentals. At one time, no doubt, the legislation would have been welcomed but the pained and grieved coal operators across whose web the spider now spineth her web are wondering where Mr. McCoy can direct them in their period of industrial paralysis and their coal at non-profitting prices and thus keep their property from going to pieces. In some later proposals critics the landlords will ask where to find renters at non-profitting rentals. As to the statute it is probably an effort to do an honest solution but it would operate to keep building programs down and thus to create a new congestion when, and if, the industrial crisis soon ends. The best thing that Mr. McCoy could think of in the way of enforcement machinery was the work of about 2,000 more or less peculiar justices of the peace which would mean just so many standards of enforcement. The hitch lies in fixing market value on a house which "all depends." A rate of 15 per cent is probably fair enough and would satisfy most landlords.

Does seem strange that a few liability insurance men can not lobby around hotels with the coffee and law-makers in order to break down the workmen's compensation act without much being heard of a grand jury investigation and all that. It is, so to speak, most unusual and preposterous. Of course, the fellows about whom the complaint was made and upon it was threatened that the friends of the law would precipitate litigation were not registered as such and for that matter are not Ohioans connected with the so-called League which is trying to nibble into the law while the country is in a laboring night and main to preserve it. Upon the whole, the present General Assembly has been exceedingly careless about observing the lobby registration statute, anyway. Recourse was had to initiative before the committees every few minutes and the holders of such accepted these as sufficient license to do general work in some cases. The development unwittingly has made the General Assembly sharper in responsibility for a lot of ugly wars that have been fought about and which can add no secret.

Does seem strange that a few liability insurance men can not lobby around hotels with the coffee and law-makers in order to break down the workmen's compensation act without much being heard of a grand jury investigation and all that. It is, so to speak, most unusual and preposterous. Of course, the fellows about whom the complaint was made and upon it was threatened that the friends of the law would precipitate litigation were not registered as such and for that matter are not Ohioans connected with the so-called League which is trying to nibble into the law while the country is in a laboring night and main to preserve it. Upon the whole, the present General Assembly has been exceedingly careless about observing the lobby registration statute, anyway. Recourse was had to initiative before the committees every few minutes and the holders of such accepted these as sufficient license to do general work in some cases. The development unwittingly has made the General Assembly sharper in responsibility for a lot of ugly wars that have been fought about and which can add no secret.

Easter At First Presbyterian Bible School

A splendid Easter program has been prepared for the First Presbyterian Bible School tomorrow morning, under the direction of Miss Margaret Legler. The service will particularly emphasize the work of the Jesus Christ in the fields. One of the features of the program will be the formal exhibition of the magnificent red satin banner elaborately decorated with Chinese characters, which was given to the school by one of its former members, the Rev. David S. Tappan, Jr., now the church's missionary at Kachek, China.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS
NEW YORK, Mar. 26.—Resumption of trading in the stock market today after the Good Friday suspension was featured by a renewal of selling pressure from professional sources. This was directed chiefly against oils and motor specialties, particularly the rubber group. Within the first half hour losses of 1 to 3 points were sustained by Atlantic Gulf, General Asphalt, Goodrich, Keller-Springfield

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS
CHICAGO
CHICAGO, Mar. 26.—Some scattered selling of wheat at the start today was responsible for an easy opening but a report that the Greek order for grain had been placed over the holiday brought forth a rally which carried prices above the highest point of the previous session. Trading, however, was light. Opening quotations which were unchanged to 1/4 cents lower, with March 1.52 1/2 to 1.53, and May 1.41 1/4 to 1.41 1/2, were followed by moderate advances and then by a reaction.

Corn was easier with wheat, the leading light and the market easily affected. After starting unchanged to 1/2 cent lower with May at 64 to 64 1/2, the market strengthened and recovered the early loss.

Corn also suffered from lack of outside support and finished nervous, prices ranging from 1/4 to 1/2 @ 3/4 cents down with May 63 1/2 @ 63 3/4 to 63 1/2.
Oats paralleled the action of other grains starting unchanged to 1/4 cent higher with May 40 1/2 to 40 3/4, and then scoring a slight further advance.

Provisions were dull and easier with grains.

Ancient Sacred Manuscripts

By John Collins Jackson

IX. In these articles we are not attempting to follow any very systematic order. Their promiscuity may serve to relieve them in part from what is liable to seem dullness to readers who are not habitually Bible students. Let us, then, get back to the original sources of the Bible library—the ancient manuscripts.

Writing materials have differed with different ages. The oldest forms of writing are pictorial representations of the things which the writer wished to preserve—pictures of birds, animals, and wedge-shaped characters. These were used for words and sentences. Words themselves are but signs of ideas for naturally ideas precede words.

These first hieroglyphic forms of writings are found on pillars of stone, obelisks, and tombs. The wedge-shaped characters were impressed onto soft clay and then baked into durable brick tablets. Great libraries, dating many centuries earlier than any Hebrew records,—excavated from buried cities of the East, are now being slowly deciphered by specialists in this field of research. Many of these bear a very vital relation to the first forms of the Jewish faith, and all of them are valuable in revealing the spirit of the times in which the oldest portions of the Old Testament were composed.

By the time that the Hebrews began to have a literature of their own culture had advanced to the stage of writing by alphabets. Hebrew, like the Syriac and the Arabic tongues, belongs to that vast family of languages called the Semitic group, named after the legendary Shem, of Genesis 10:21. No manuscript now exists in this ancient Hebrew or Phoenician writing, though the Samaritan Pentateuch is somewhat like the original. Our present Hebrew Bible is of the later Assyrian type of writing. There is about the same difference between them as between our American Bible and the type of the same English, or rather Roman, letters in which the Bible of 200 years ago was printed.

There are specimens of the original Hebrew or Phoenician writings preserved on some coins of the third century B. C., and also on the celebrated Moabite Stone, or King Mesha's Pillar, which you may see in the British Museum. That famous monument contains the account which "the sheepmaster" king of Moab wrote 3,000 years ago, about a battle he had with Israel, recorded in 2 Kings 1:1, and 3:4, and in 2 Chronicles 20:22. It is altogether probable that the two Moabite tablets were inscribed on the two Moabite tablets of stone in the identical letters found on the Moabite Stone.

About forty years ago, another specimen of this original Hebrew or Phoenician language came to light by two boys discovering, while playing about the Pool of Siloam near Jerusalem, some letters on a tablet hidden in a portion of rock, which expert scholars found had been engraved there by the workmen who had hewn the tunnel which supplies the water of that famous pool. It is believed by these critics that this is the tunnel made by King Hezekiah about 700 B. C., when he "stopped the upper water course of Gihon and brought it straight down to the City of David." See 2 Chronicles 32:2-4, and 32:30.

These are the only known specimens still extant of the original form of the Hebrew writings. It is not certain just when or how the first was displaced by the later Assyrian type. But it seems beyond doubt that it was before our Savior's day, because He says in Matt. 5:18, that "one Yod or tittle shall in no wise pass from the law till all be fulfilled." Now this "Yod" our Y, is the smallest of all the letters in the present Hebrew alphabet, but in the original it was one of the largest.

It is known among well informed Bible students that a peculiarity of the Hebrew writing is that it uses no vowels, but consonants only. The little dots or marks found under the Hebrew letters, called vowel points, were not put there by the writers, but were supplied later for the sake of convenience, not before the year 500 or 600 A. D. Prior to that time readers always had to decide for themselves what vowels should be inserted in the text of consonants. Here is Genesis 1:1, as they found it. Try supplying the needed vowels. It is not difficult as one would think. If you are familiar with the text, "IN THE BEGINNING GOD CREATED THE HEAVEN AND THE EARTH." Well, how did you get along with it? Remember, however, that it would be a far more difficult task if you had but little idea of what the writer was driving at. The best of the Hebrew scholars sometimes made mistakes in supplying the proper vowels. For example, St. Jerome, 400 A. D., tells us that whereas our Bible says that Abram "drove away the fowls from the sacrifice" (Genesis 15:11) he found the Septuagint translation of the same verse making it that Abram "sat down with them." But such errors are after all very rare. It is almost incredible how accurately the people who had been educated to read vowelless Hebrew agreed in their rendering of the same. The subject must be continued.

Woman Held To Grand Jury

Mrs. Dora James, New Boston, was given a hearing on a charge of assault on Marshal Frank Hall asked New Boston, Friday afternoon on a charge of resisting an officer and was found guilty and bound over to the grand jury on $200 bond, which she furnished. Judge A. Z. Blair represented Mrs. James.

Mrs. Ida Stamper who was to have Caldwell as president and Dr. J. N. Thomas as publicity manager.

The object is to improve livestock in both meat and milk breeds. It was pointed out that Government statistics show that where a purebred sire heads the herd the production of milk and butter is increased 20 to 100 percent. In beef cattle even a better showing is made in weight and quality of meat. The breeders present yesterday decided to hold a sale of pure bred stock on the lower Market street square Friday, May 20, at one o'clock. For this sale forty high class, pure bred bulls and as many heifers were pledged by the breeders who are making this sacrifice to further the good work. The Association agrees that if a person should buy a pure bred sire they will take and dispose of any grade stock.

Spring Medicine

Now Needed by Nearly Every One to Purify the Blood and Build Up Strength.

Few come to these trying spring days without weariness, debility, that "lured feeling," caused in large part by impure, de-vitalized blood. Change of season often "takes all the strength out of me," as many people say.

The tonic and blood purifier needed is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It quickly dispels that exhausted feeling, enriches the blood and benefits the mental, muscular and nervous systems. In a word, says a druggist, "Hood's Sarsaparilla is our most dependable restorative." Only the best tonic and purifying ingredients used—roots, herbs, barks and berries, such as physicians often prescribe. A record of 46 years successful use. It will do you good. Try it this spring. A mild laxative, Hood's Pills.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

IS THE IDEAL SPRING MEDICINE.

Easter Means New Life and Hope

It was the first day of the week that the disciples came to the tomb. It was empty. The Christ they had laid there Friday night was risen. Because He thus conquered death Portsmouth and the whole Christian world celebrates Easter.

The first day of the week has since been observed as Sunday—thus in another way does the world recognize the supremacy of Christ.

Some men scoff at the idea that the Son of God could rise from the dead, but men and women by the millions have faith that He did, and acting on that faith, they credit the testimony of the many infallible witnesses of Christ in the days after His death. Believing, they have a joy, a peace, and a hope of future life which can never be destroyed.

Easter brings assurance of immortality. But it means more. Christianity has the only authoritative answer to present day inquiries—"What of the future?" Christ conquered death and robbed the grave forever of its terror. He helps us conquer sin. He offers His assistance freely to everyone who believes. This is the only road to the Christian church.

Acceptance of His offer means surrender of self, willingness to follow Christ's teachings. Anyone who has thus followed the Lord will testify to the benefits.

The church has the only cure for social ills. Why not put your influence on the side of the greatest constructive force in civilization? Before you throw your life positively—or negatively—on the side of newly born isms, give careful consideration to this age-long, world-reforming institution, which every day challenges you to live up to your best self.

Easter comes as a yearly reminder of the sin of contentment, of the inevitable failure which accompanies satisfaction with present effort.

Easter brings us also the message to always to strive to excel in everything we do.

On Easter the whole world goes to church. Of course you will be there early. But in all the beauty of the music and flowers remember that Monday follows Sunday, and that another year stretches on ahead. Unless you apply the practical lessons of Easter to your life you will have spent the day in vain.

THE LORD'S SUPPER AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

As is their custom, the First Presbyterian church will observe Easter tomorrow morning with the Easter sermon, and administration of the Lord's Supper. The beautiful sacrament of the dedication of children to the Lord in Baptism will be observed. New members will be publicly received into the church. A large attendance of the congregation is anticipated. Since the church will unite with Bigelow for the afternoon and evening services at which Mrs. Demarest will preach, the Easter music for the evening

U. C. T.'S HONOR MR. BRIDGES TONIGHT

River City Council U. C. T. No. 11 will take in a class of 25 candidates tonight in their hall, Fourth and Washington streets. J. D. Bridges, who has been secretary of the organization for 25 years is to be signally honored. Grand Councilor Oscar Fisher will also be present. A smoker and banquet will close the meeting.

TWENTY FOUR YEARS AGO

Republicans held city primaries and nominated ticket headed by Mayor Row for mayor.

Judge John C. Miller of the Common Pleas bench issues order that prisoners at jail must wash their faces and hands every morning before breakfast.

Democrats nominated Charles C. Giddens for mayor.

The little Kanawha mill at New Boston will start up in all departments next week.

There was a big turn-out of Elks last night to welcome three new faces into the herd, Harry and Arthur Bannon and Lynn Lloyd. Ed R. Shumbers of Paris, Ky., manager of the Portsmouth ball team, makes preliminary plans for season by signing these players, Joe Figg, Tom Welch, Curran Hempleman, Harrington Fischer, Harry Hart, "Cooney" Best and Tanner, first sacker. The players will report here about May 1.

Jacob Hetzel of Germany is here on a visit to his son, Jacob Hetzel, Jr., of the Portsmouth abattoir.

FARM BUREAU MEMBERS TO BE BUTTONED

Members of the Scioto County Farm Bureau will soon be able to recognize one another by a glance at their coat lapel, if a plan proposed by the State Farm Bureau Federation is adopted. A lapel button, the general design of which probably will be adopted by the Ohio Bureau, has been received at the Scioto County Farm Bureau headquarters and it is expected that members of the Bureau will vote upon its adoption at the next regular meeting.

The color scheme of the button is blue and white. In the upper left hand corner is a small map of the United States, through which the letters, "A. E. B. F.," are printed. In the upper right hand corner is a map of Ohio with the letters "O. F. B. F." The upper center bears the words "Farm Bureau." The insignia will cost eight cents.

It is planned to change the color of the button each year, in order to see that only paid-up members receive the advantages and benefits of the bureau.

STORE ROBBED

IRONTON, March 26.—The Central Hardware store was entered last night and about five dollars in cash was removed from the cash register. It had been left in the register for change and was in small change. The burglar tampered with a broken revolver, but evidently discovered that he could not work it and left the weapon lying on a show case. The other revolvers had been locked up securely in another department of the store.

Entrance to the store room was effected by means of a long, thin piece of steel, which was forced between the crevices of the door and the lock was forced.

UNUSUAL CONDITION

Texas Lady Suffered With Polling and Aching Pains in Her Back, Which Cardui Relieved.

Houston, Texas.—Mrs. C. D. Cook, of 212 Whitty Street, this city, recently said: "About four months after my marriage, I . . . began suffering much pain, and knew that my condition was unusual, but couldn't just decide what was wrong. I had to go to bed. . . .

"All across my back and hips were pains, pulling and aching until I could hardly sit up. I stayed in bed a few days. My husband had heard of Cardui. . . . so I told him he might get it. "After I had taken Cardui a few days, I was up. I took five bottles and haven't been in bed since for this trouble, for if I have the least symptoms of this trouble I get Cardui and take it in time.

"I have a number of friends who have used Cardui, and they recommend it very highly."

The experience of this Texas lady is similar to that related by thousands of other women. Cardui is purely vegetable, and mild and gentle in its action. Cardui may be the very medicine you need if suffering with womanly troubles.

Take Cardui. NC-136

SPECIAL RELIGIOUS SERVICES

FIRST CHRISTIAN
Number of conversions to date 110
Number last night 10
Total 120

At the opening of the service at the First Christian church last night every seat was filled in the auditorium and nearly all of those in the gallery were taken, by those interested in the great messages being delivered in song and sermon during the eight day revival at that church. Rev. Oakley brought the message in sermon while the great chorus under the able direction of Miss Sells opened promptly at 7:30 with several inspiring messages in song. A well rendered solo by Miss Sells gave a splendid finish to the musical part of the program and Rev. Oakley then made the announcement for the remainder of the revival. Contrary to the usual custom there will be special services tonight in which the Junior chorus will be featured. At this point Rev. Oakley urged that the juniors meet at 1:30 this afternoon for the purpose of rehearsing some of the numbers. The service to night will start at 7:30 as on other nights and a great crowd is looked for as many of the folks will be able to come whose work will not permit them on other nights of the week.

For the Easter program which is to begin with a prayer service at 8:30 in which all workers and officers of the Bible School are asked to take part. Following this will be the sermon on "What of Your Pardon?" At 2:30 the Junior Endeavor will give a program to which all are invited and following up the day Rev. Oakley announced that the subject of his evening sermon would be "Almost Persuaded." This will conclude the eight day revival at which so many have made the good confession, and have been reclaimed.

Taking for his subject "The Basis of Our Hope" and his text from 1st Peter 3:13, he said in part: "Peter here was talking to Christians and exhorting them to be able to give a reason for the hope that was in them. In those days, it meant something to be a Christian. It was dangerous to name the name of Christ. You were liable to lose your job, your social position and some of them lost their life. It took courage for them to accept Christ when they knew that they would be hated, ostracized, hunted, hounded; some of them thrown to the lions and other burned at stake. Property was confiscated and every conceivable persecution was heaped upon them. The Jews were against them and used every means of influence and torture against them. The Roman Empire turned against them and they too, cast them into the arena to the wild beasts and persecuted them unmercifully. I wonder if I were to tell you tonight that if you accepted Christ that tomorrow you would lose your job, that perhaps you would lose your social standing when it was known that you would lose your property and that you might lose your head, I wonder how many would accept?"

"If I were to tell you that you would be cast out of the city, that you would be hounded, persecuted and perhaps killed, how many would accept? That is just the conditions under which this old gospel was preached in the time of Peter. And Peter told them to be able to give a reason for the hope they had. Friends, these early Christians had a hope and they had a reason for that hope and were able to give an answer. Their hope was based on Jesus Christ.

"If I were to ask you if you had a hope of being saved, a great many of you would say 'yes' but would you be able to give a reason for that hope? Are you quite sure that you have a hope or is it just a wish to be saved? There is some difference between a hope and a wish. I might wish for a million dollars but I would have no reason on which to base that wish. We can wish without any basis for it but our hopes must have some foundation. Peter says that you must have a reason for that hope and be able to give it. Hope is based on something. A wish or desire may have no foundation.

"Jesus promises all the basis of hope, it's the basis of all our hopes and He offers you his salvation on the simple terms of the gospel and I bring you His gospel tonight. It is a simple covenant, a will or as we say in modern language a contract. He has made the offer and in order to make the contract binding on both we must accept it.

"There are some folks who believe God is good and that He will save everybody. The goodness of God will save to the uttermost their claim but the goodness of God does not prevent suffering here. It does not prevent sin here. I believe in the goodness of God and that He will save universally but only on the terms of His gospel.

"There are other folks who expect to be saved on their own goodness. They think that if they sin today and do some good act tomorrow that the sin will be blotted out. This is mortality. It will not save. Do you suppose that if a man was to beat his wife today and then buy her a box of candy tomorrow that it would blot out the beating? No. Nothing but forgiveness of God through Jesus Christ can blot out our sins. Your sins will never be blotted out in any other way. "Jesus Christ makes you the offer tonight, I don't know how long He will make it but I know it is open tonight and it is your time to accept. Jesus is the basis of our hope. Jesus is the basis of universal salvation and only through Him can we hope to be saved."

BIGELOW-FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

The two churches combining in the union services, First Presbyterian and Bigelow M. E., will hold Easter Sunday morning. Dr. Chandler will preach his annual Easter sermon at Bigelow First Presbyterian will observe the Lord's Supper, with reception of members. Sunday afternoon and evening Mrs. Demarest will speak at Bigelow, both congregations uniting. The subject will be—"A New Version of the Prodigal Son." At 3 p. m. her theme will be "The Younger Son," and at 7:15 p. m. she will deal with "The Elder Son." The evening service will close the campaign. Friends are warned to come in time if they secure the seat they desire.

The thank offering which provides the sole recompense to the evangelists for their campaign, will be received at these two services. With all the reverence and solemnity that was its due, Crucifixion day was observed at the Bigelow M. E. Church yesterday at a special afternoon service, as well as at the regular service in the evening. An impressive union communion service closed the afternoon meeting.

The church was crowded for the afternoon service at three. Not only were members of Bigelow and First Presbyterian present, but many came from other congregations, among which were three visiting ministers. The service opened with the congregation singing with deep feeling a hymn of loyalty "Crown Him Lord of All." Mr. Demarest's solo was most effective, using an old hymn of Charles Wesley, "Would Jesus Have the Sinner Die?"

More impressive still were the testimonies, a flood of them, brief and terse, a word or two, a sentence, firm and ringing, which preceded the sermon. As the audience faced the loneliness of the Cross, "the cloud of witnesses," became most significant.

"THE CRUCIFIXION"
Mrs. Demarest chose for her subject "The Crucifixion." The sermon expressed to the great satisfaction of the audience the glory and grandeur as well as the awfulness of Calvary.

She said in part: "They had brought the Christ from Judaea but like Pilate they washed their hands of all responsibility—these Pharisees—yet they were true murderers. When accused He answered nothing—yet He could have answered them, crushingly, had He so chosen. He stubbornly refused to give Pilate a chance to acquit Him. It was in Calvary that the Christ drank the cup to his death, suffered all the pains of death. His death was because He had the power to lay down His life and to take it up again. No one as He realizes the infinite honor and the awfulness of sin, for He was made sin for us. The battle was fought and the victory won—in Calvary. Calvary itself is the story of a victory. It is in our hearts we have to die. It is there the battle is fought, the victory won. Like a lamb He allowed Himself to be led to the slaughter. Lady Macbeth tries to wash away the stains from her hands in vain; and so poor, weak, cowardly Pilate, fearing the angry multitude, which was hard and the cold, superior mockery of the Pharisee which was much harder still, tries to escape responsibility. Warned by his own heart, warned by his own wife, Pilate fell before the overbearing Pharisees. By an inconsistency, unreality laid of power, life, love, we bring reproach on our faith and crucify our Lord afresh. The religious people do the persecuting now as over in the history of the world. Envy is at the bottom of it, vile, green-eyed jealousy, though we often fail to recognize it."

UNION COMMUNION SERVICE
The sermon, brought to a searching conclusion with deep reverence, the congregation entered into an impressive union communion service, the two pastors, Rev. Dr. C. E. Chandler and Rev. D. C. Boyd together administering the sacrament to the large number present.

Many salespeople from downtown stores, appreciating the closing of their places of business at 4:30, took advantage of this service arranged at that hour for their convenience. Dr. Chandler's invitation to the Table of the Lord voiced the broad, brotherly spirit of both congregations, in welcoming to a fellowship of communion all, irrespective of denomination, who professed a living faith in a risen Christ, to partake with them of the emblems of His death.

The two pastors remained standing at the altar after the benediction, their hands fervently clasped in fellowship, symbolizing to many the real fellowship which their two churches had thus brought to a spiritual climax. In passing out, someone was heard to remark, "This is the real inter-church spirit, isn't it?"

"BROKEN LIVES"
The church was completely filled last night, galleries and all, for the last of the week-night services of the Demarest campaign. The sermon was said by many to be one of the very strongest the evangelist has delivered, and the invitation once more had a fervent response, the altar rail and being sufficient to accommodate the kneeling ones. Mrs. Demarest was particularly able in her after-service last night, and many found the joy of the decision: "I'll live for Him who died for me."

POLA NEGRI? willful, Beautiful, Audacious! coming with cast of 5000 in "PASSION"

The evening service opened with a splendid organ recital by Mr. Sander Demarest. The congregational singing was excellent. Mr. Demarest sang as a solo "There is no Gain but by the Cross," the music by Mrs. Demarest.

"BROKEN LIVES"

Mrs. Demarest chose as her evening subject, "Broken Lives," taking her text from Matt. 14:13. The setting is the familiar story of the feeding of the five thousand on the shores of Galilee. She said in part: "The multitude was pitifully selfish. They gave Jesus no rest but followed Him, even breaking into His needed rest. But He did not rebuke them; Jesus' life was one long laying down of self.

To the disciples Jesus was an impractical idealist. Their own interest after the crowd on this occasion was very largely concerned over their own hunger. If they had known Jesus better they would have known that there are no desert places where Jesus is. Selfish people are always blind; they never have anything to give. A Christian's deepest tragedy is to awaken up to find that he has nothing to give." Send them away! how terrible an admission! Jesus replied "Bring them to me."

First Baptist Church

At the close of the second week of meetings held at the First Baptist church the interest is at high tide: spirituality is deepening, many are finding Christ as their Savior and backsliders are being restored and the call is coming from every side that the meetings should be continued. Baptismal services have been held three nights this week, and will be observed again Sunday morning.

Pastor Tillis took his text last night from Romans, third chapter, using three words, "Redemption, Propitiation His Blood," and from them vividly portrayed how God could remain a just God and justify the sinner. A diet was sung by Miss Georgia McCard and Miss Marie Irwin entitled "I Shall Know Him."

MANLY FIVE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

A big surprise was given the basketball teams of the Intermediate basketball tournament at the high school yesterday when the Manly five walked away with the championship.

The big game was played last night when Manly played its fourth game of the tournament and its second game of the day won from Troop 3, 20 to 11 and thereby won the pennant given the winner of the Intermediate tournament. The last games were played yesterday. At one o'clock the undefeated Holy Redeemer and Troop 17 of St. Mary's played and while the fans and players expected Troop 17 to win the opposite happened and Holy Redeemer won 14 to 11. This left three teams undefeated, Holy Redeemer, Manly and Troop 3. Manly had drawn the other afternoon number and it fell to them to play Holy Redeemer. Manly won this contest 13 to 9, Holy Redeemer putting up a fine game despite the fact they had played hard in a game just a short time before.

TWO BIG GAMES THIS EVENING

Tonight a double header basketball game will be staged in the high school gym and the double card will be well worth the price of admission. The big game will be between the fast independent five representing Peebles and the American Legion five.

The Legion five lost a game early this week to Peebles by three points and tonight expect to return the honors, but by a bigger margin. The Legion team will lineup with Staten and Shoemaker, forwards, Gims, center, Matthews and L. Selby, guards. The subs will be P. Williams and Adams.

The preliminary game will start at 7:30 o'clock and this will be the championship game of the Senior basketball tournament held in the local gym Thursday and Friday. Trinity M. E., with Staten, Wallace, Milard, Gulker and Brant, will clash with the Sedotville M. E. five, including Brock, Powell, Edwards, Brown and Courtney, practically the Sedotville high school five and champions of the Sedot county school basketball league.

Jack Dempsey Starts Training

CALGARY, ALBERTA, March 25.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, has commenced light training in preparation for his bout with Georges Carpentier on July 2. After spending two hours in a local gymnasium, he left last night for Spokane and Seattle.

Dempsey is lamenting the loss of a mauling dog which was to accompany him on his road work. It broke away from its chain, chewed the casing of a window into splinters and subsequently jumped through the glass.

Moran Is Sore At Texas

Cincinnati, March 26.—Closing the training camp at Cisco last night, the Cincinnati Nationals started out to play a long schedule of exhibition games, the first of which is with the Cleveland Americans at Dallas, this afternoon.

The stay of the Reds at Cisco, according to dispatches, was profitable from an athletic standpoint, but a loser financially. Manager Moran says that under no circumstances would the team go back to that section, so long as he has anything to say about it. He declared he was well pleased with the condition of all the players, who with a few exceptions are in practically perfect condition.

Moran has decided to take all his players on the barnstorming trip, with the exception of Ralph Shaffer, infielder, for whom he has no place. He will try to place Shaffer with some good minor league club.

Kerr In Shape

CHICAGO, March 26.—Except for a wobbly start in the first inning, Dick Kerr showed mid-season form against the Wichita Falls, Texas, team of the Texas League in their White Sox practice game yesterday, which the Sox won, 13 to 6, according to reports here today. Four hits and a pass led him in three runs, but in the next six innings Kerr held the opponents to four hits. Two more games with Wichita Falls are scheduled.

Sallee Warbles

Slim Sallee says that Goldie Rapp is a genuine find for the Giants and is a fixture at third base. He says he will make the Red management regret more than once that they ever let him trickle through their fingers.

Special Match

Doe Baughman's left handed bowling five will roll the Bears in a special match at the Play House alleys tonight.

Indoor Meet

CHICAGO, Mar. 26.—Seven athletes who were members of the American Olympic team at Antwerp are entered in the Central A. A. U. indoor track and field games here tonight. Jo and Frank Loomis in the hurdles and Loren Murchison in the 70 yard dash are the leading points winners in the struggle between the Chicago Athletic Association and the Illinois Athletic club. Aside from the championship events there will be special contests for athletes from high schools and academies.

RENEW MEET

ANN ARBOR, MICH., March 26.—Cornell and Michigan are to renew their indoor track competition at Waterman gymnasium here tonight. The meet marks the first trip to Ann Arbor by a Cornell team since 1916, when the Iliacs were victorious. They won again last year on their own floor.

For Dear Trissie

WACO, TEXAS, March 26.—The Hubbard City, Texas, fire department has purchased a saddle and bridle to be presented to Trissie Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, April 21, when the Indians open the season in Cleveland. The outfit cost $500 and is decorated with hand carvings and Speaker's name will be stamped thereon.

Recruits Released

NEW YORK, March 26.—Eleven recruits, including an outfielder, an infielder, two catchers and seven pitchers have been released by the New York American League team. It was reported here today in dispatches from the Yankee training camp at Shreveport, La.

Jess Doyle, former South Atlantic League pitcher, goes to Benmont of the Texas League; Infielder Norman McMillan, purchased from Greenville, of the South Atlantic League, and Pitcher Earl Johnson, last year with Cedarhurst of the Georgia State League, to the Rochester International, and Pitcher Ralph Ledbetter to the Shreveport, Texas, League team.

Nessler To Meet Watson

CINCINNATI, O., March 26.—Frankie Nessler will try to do Monday night what Jack Sheppard and Bennie Becker failed to accomplish—attend to the case of Gene Watson, sensational Pacific coast lightweight, who has won a high place in the estimation of Queen City ring fans. Sheppard, outwrestling Watson could not make Watson pause, and then Watson handed a most artistic trimming to Becker. Nessler and Watson will be the headlines at Heck's Monday night.

Taft Will Boss Club

IRONTON, March 26.—The Russell, Ky., baseball club has been organized and Cyril Taft will manage the Kentuckians' first team this year. The Russell team is to be stronger and faster than ever before in the history of the old town and has the enthusiastic backing of the merchants of the city. Strong teams are to be booked throughout the season. The Russell club will open with Ironton at Russell on Saturday, April 10th and the second game will be played at Ironton on April 11th.

Company Incorporates

State Plays Huntington

The Ohio State basketball team will play the crack team in Huntington tonight. The game will be staged in Baesman's Academy here and will be followed by a big dance.

A Home For Old Players

PASADENA, CAL., March 26.—Catalina Island may be the future home of old and enfeebled baseball players who are unable to support themselves.

If plans discussed by Wm. Wright, Jr., owner of the Chicago Cubs and his manager, Johnny Evers, while the Cubs are training at Catalina, are brought to a head, a proposition will be put up to the National commissioner to arrange for a home.

Off For Tournament

TOLEDO, Mar. 26.—The Champion Spark Plug bowling team, winner of the 1921 Ohio state championship, left this morning for Buffalo where tonight the five will compete in the five men event of the American Bowling congress tournament.

The team is comprised by L. J. Gaszole, who holds the record for an individual score in Toledo in the last ten years, with 785 for three games in sanctioned league competition. The Spark Plug club have rolled a number of scores over 3,000 this season.

Some Stadium Being Planned

URBANA, ILL., March 26.—The proposed new athletic stadium at the University of Illinois will be larger than the famous Yale bowl and will have a seating capacity of 75,000 persons, according to announcement today by George Huff, director of athletics. It will cost $1,500,000.

Funds to build the stadium will be raised by popular subscription among students, alumni and friends of the institution.

Nunemaker In Hospital

CLEVELAND, March 26.—Lee Nunemaker, catcher for the Cleveland Indians, is in the hospital list, according to word received here from the spring training camp. Nunemaker was hit on the ankle by a foul ball several days ago and the pain was so great yesterday that he remained in his room.

The Indians are to meet the Cincinnati Reds at Dallas today and tomorrow. Indications are that Coveleski and Bayly would pitch for Cleveland.

All Ready For Big Game At Coney Island Sunday

What is expected to be a real ball game will be played at Coney Island tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon, when Shultz's Stars hook up with Mason's All Professionals. This game, which will be absolutely free to all, will serve as a work out for the two teams and judging from the respective line ups it is going to be a great battle. Both teams are strong on paper and each participant has been indulging in light work-outs, so they will be able to go top speed even if they do feel a few aches and pains later on. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock, and fans desiring to see the exhibition are asked to assemble at Union street, where the ferry will transport them to Kentucky soil. The grounds at Coney Island have been placed in good shape for the game. Work on the large commodious grand stand has been started, but will in no way interfere with the playing of the game. It is hoped to have the grand stand completed by the middle of April, when the park will be formally opened for the season. Manager Schultz of the Stars has leased the grounds for three years, and expects to bring some crack teams here. By the time the grand stand is completed and the new bleachers erected, it is thought the new excursion boat which Captain John Davis recently purchased and which is on the Pt. Pleasant docks, will soon be ready to float. The boat will be used in transporting fans to and from Coney Island.

The All Professionals will line up as follows tomorrow: Valodis ss, Barber 2b, McDaniels c, Keyser cf, DeLoe lf, Monk 1b, Kilith cf, Weber rf, Mason 3b, Spence p. The Shultz Stars will present the following appearance: Stillwell c, Lewis, Townsend and Hollins p, Fotts 1b, Cooper 2b, Shultz ss, Wells 3b, Haupt lf, Staten cf, Meyers rf.

BELGIAN HAS LEAD
New York, March 26.—Eduard Moremans, Belgian billiard champion, had a lead of 260 points over Welker Cochran, of Chicago, as they began the final blocks today in their 4,800 point match at 182 ball line. Cochran took the lead yesterday, but the Belgian regained it immediately with a run of 371. The grand totals are: Moremans, 4,000; Cochran, 3,731.

A MAN OF MANY STATUES

PRESIDENT HARDING'S first public official function will be to head a procession, which is to be one of the incidents to the dedication of a statue, in Central park, New York, to Simon Bolivar, the date being fixed early in April.

There is already a statue to this same doughty hero in Central park, which but accentuates the fact that he is the most "statued" individual of modern times, marble and bronze figures of him now standing in half a dozen different countries and all having some immediate significance therewith.

Bolivar is proclaimed in history as the liberator of Central America, and he is often spoken of as "the Washington of South America." There wasn't much resemblance, however, between the two, except that Simon was equally experienced with George in getting licked in most every battle and yet being a conspicuous success in winning a revolution. But, even in this there isn't much of a comparison, for Simon got worsted so often as to make George seem an ordinary piker in that line.

Bolivar, however, like Washington was a rich man for his days. He was a native of Venezuela, but of the rich ruling class, with more Irish than Spanish blood in him. He completed his education in Spain and as a young man he came to the United States for quite a stay. Here he is supposed to have gotten his democratic ideas. Anyway, immediately on returning home from the United States he entered actively and aggressively into the revolutionary business. He did fairly well at the start and set up a government of his own of which he was made dictator. After a year or two, however, the Spaniards chased him out of the country. Coming back after the lapse of some time he met with nothing but reverses and finally had to hide himself on a remote island in the Caribbean sea. From there he came back once more and eventually drove the Spaniard rule out of the country forever, and he became dictator of Venezuela and Colombia. May be tiring of that he moved over to Peru and renewed the struggle with the Spaniards there. Here he was more successful than in his previous effort and soon Peru was an independent government, with him as dictator. Ever restless, or the implacable foe of monarchy he was later found heading a revolt against Spain in Bolivia. Here he achieved victory and again became dictator.

It was not long, however, before his personal enemies became so numerous and powerful as to overthrow him and he was deposed. They claimed, with considerable vehemence and not altogether without showing of circumstances that he was a braggart and a coward, but after shearing him of position and power they left him unmolested. Whether or not there was any truth in the accusations brought against him, history offers no convincing proof. They might have been founded solely on his excessive vanity and desire for display, and his many reverses, the latter being due, most probably, to the unreliability of his troops. Anyway, posterity has dealt kindly with him and all the nations he liberated, as well as America, are pleased to honor him by splendid monuments.

LET GEORGE CONTINUE TO DO IT

REPRESENTATIVE GEORGE MATTHEWS, of this county, made two unique records, in the assembly this week. In the first instance he was the only representative voting against a certain measure and in the second he was the only Republican to vote with the solid, but insignificant Democratic minority against another.

In both actions Matthews sustained that reputation he acquired here at home for his gauntless courage and sturdy independence. When he starts on his way he doesn't look behind to see if the whole world is with him or has its face from him, he goes to the end of the road he has chosen.

He is a striking figure among legislators of the degenerate days and a tower of manhood among the general run of lickspittles that compose the present assembly and we glory in his spunk in contemptuously spurning party unanimity and taking his stand with the hopeless opposition. It was the cheapest sort of clap-trap legislation proposed, the creation of another costly bureau with altogether futile prospect, totally unworthy of enactment and also impossible, except in times when alleged patriotism becomes the walking stick of small politicians.

AS TO "KLINE'S"

SOME thousands of people surged into "Kline's" last Wednesday evening; other thousands didn't simply because they couldn't get in. These latter had to admire from a distance, or else come around the next day.

And "Kline's" is a thing to admire; of a truth, as business structure and institution for the accommodation of the public, we would say in all freedom that it is the most admirable thing ever done in this city. It is one enterprise, at least, in the town, that in its construction, takes account not only of the immediate present, but manifests broad views of the future. It is genuinely metropolitan in appointments and appearance and there is breadth enough in its proportions to allow for most generous expansion of demands for a generation to come.

It is a genuine and pleasing expression of the brighter, better and bigger Portsmouth that is rapidly evolving.

Another case of the wind being tempered to the shorn lamb. Work is scarce, but eggs are only 25 cents a dozen. Come to think of it though, what difference does that make if you have the eggs, but the consumer hasn't the quarter?

Another instance of biting off the nose to spite the face. Congress is figuring on how to get back the war boards it eliminated just because Wilson had created them.

The business of cutting industrial melons does not create as much enthusiasm as it did at one time.

A woman may not get in the president's cabinet until congress authorizes the ordinary department.

Education For Soldiers' Widows

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—Education for work, at government expense and with government support, is promised for about 28,000 Americans, including 12,000 women, by a measure which has already passed the senate and is said to have excellent prospects in the house.

This is the Kenyon-Fess bill which passed the senate on January 31 of the current year and now lies awaiting action by the house of representatives. Representative Sineon of Ohio, whose special privilege is this bill, attempted in vain to get a quorum together to discuss it during the last few days of the closing session of Mr. Wilson's administration.

This bill offers vocational training under the supervision of the Federal Board of Vocational Education to the widows and orphans of Americans who lost their lives during the period that the United States was actively engaged in the World War and also to American citizens who served in Allied Armies that is, with the Canadian, British, French, Italian or Belgian forces. In other words, the United States government is planning to help the wives and children of heroes fit themselves for jobs whereby they can earn their bread-and-butter and our men who did their duty under foreign but allied flags will, in this way, not be deprived of their privileges as Americans.

It is estimated by the Federal Board that at least 10,000 Americans who had enlisted in allied forces will thus become eligible for vocational training and 12,000 widows and 6,000 orphans. These figures are a conservative estimate compiled by the war department, and it is possible that further investigation now being made by the various district offices of the federal board will increase this number.

Among prominent individuals especially interested in the compiling of these statistics, is Miss Helen P. McCormick of New York City, who is Assistant District Attorney of Kings County, N. Y., and chairman of the Catholic Big Sisters of that locality. Miss McCormick is personally searching the records of the local war heroes in order to find especially how many women and children in America's greatest city will be entitled to such training.

What Women Are Eligible

In order for a widow or orphan to be eligible for this training it will be necessary to prove that her husband, or father, has died since April 7, 1917 as a result of injury or disability incurred in service, or aggravated while in service, or traceable, in the opinion of the board, to origin during his period of service. No widow can receive these benefits unless she commences a course of training under the supervision of the Federal Board prior to January 1, 1922, nor in the event of her remarriage. Moreover, application for such training must be made to the district office of the Federal Board within 18 months after the date that the bill passes and has become a law.

In the case of an orphan, vocational training shall only be furnished between the ages of 14 and 18 years. Of course, at this time, most of the orphans of soldiers killed during the war are from two to five years of age. The provision allows, however, that provided application is made by the child's guardian before the 18 months have elapsed, the child will receive the training when 14 years of age. The reason that the age limit is set in this manner has been explained by Mr. Monroe, a member of the house committee on education, to be based on the ground that the public schools take care of these children up to the age of fourteen. It is expected that in these cases an arrangement will have been made by the Federal Board of Vocational Education and the educational authorities of the various states for carrying on the education of the children in accordance with the ruling of this bill.

In the cases of the men who served with allied forces, the bill states that "Every person in the military or naval forces of any ally of the United States in the late war, if a citizen of the United States immediately prior thereto, and having resumed citizenship if lost by reason of any oath or obligation taken for the purposes of entering such allied service, who, since April 7, 1917, has resided, or has been discharged or furloughed therefrom under honorable conditions having a disability, in the judgment of the board, constituting a vocational handicap, or of a degree of ten per centum or more, incurred, increased, or aggravated while a member of such forces, or later developing such a disability traceable, in the opinion of the board, to service with such forces" shall be furnished with such course of vocational rehabilitation or vocational and general education as the board shall prescribe.

Includes Medical Treatment

It will be especially noted that by the above-quoted passage in the Kenyon-Fess Bill, a new latitude of eligibility is given in that to be eligible, a man may have either 10 per cent disability or a vocational handicap. Formerly the provision was for the vocationally handicapped, only. In another section of the bill, this expression also includes men who served with the United States military and naval forces.

Another very interesting feature of the bill is the provision stating that all medical treatment which any widow, orphan or ex-serviceman may require while receiving such training, be provided at the expense of the government. As no provision of this sort has been made by congress, such organizations as the Elks have raised special funds to take care of doctor's bills incurred by men who have received or are now receiving such training. However, as most of these military organizations are now closing all their war-work, most of their funds have ceased to be available for this purpose.

Another section of the bill provides that "every person electing to follow a course shall, while following the same, be paid monthly by the said board, from the appropriations made by the congress for carrying out the provisions of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act, such sum as, in the judgment of the said board is necessary for his (or her) maintenance and support, and for the maintenance and support of persons dependent upon him, if any." In no event can the sum so paid an adult, without dependents, exceed $100 a month, or with dependents, $120 a month. In the latter case, however, there are in addition, the various sums prescribed as family allowances which are provided for by the War Risk Insurance Act. The amount to be paid a child while pursuing a course of training cannot exceed $50 a month. Children included in this act are legitimate children, children legally adopted prior to November 11, 1918, step-children, and illegitimate children, provided the deceased father had been judicially ordered, or decreed to contribute to such child's support at any time.

The courses of training under the supervision of the board include a practically unlimited scope of choice. Training in various agricultural pursuits, business courses, trades, professions, all are represented in the long list of over 100 occupations. These include all the popular, up-to-date trades such as auto-mechanic work, show card writing, photography, linotype work, window trimming, tailoring and other similar trades, as well as the older occupations, preparation for clerical or stenographic work or for work in one of the professions such as pharmacy, theology, journalism, or medicine. There are, of course, restrictions regarding what particular course an applicant may take, but every endeavor is made to place each applicant where he may learn proficiency in the occupation for which he is best suited.

Military organizations all over the country are reported to be strongly supporting the bill. Representative Fess states that he has every reason to hope that it will be among the first to be passed when the next congress has convened.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 26.—There is a possibility that writers of red-blooded fiction will emulate the actors and go on strike. Everyone said the actors wouldn't strike. They were too artistic, but they did and the Author's League is just now bursting with the spirit of revolt.

It is all about the moving picture rights to their stories. Mr. Hearst, they claim, who owns a very important string of magazines, makes the purchase of fiction contingent upon the moving picture rights. Mr. Hearst replies with withering scorn that he does nothing of the sort and so the verbal battle wages.

He further intimates that writers may sell their wares wherever they please and there are rumors that many top-notchers will no longer appear under the Hearst banner. The authors say that Mr. Hearst pays them a certain price for the movie rights and then sells them at a price sometimes double that paid for the original story.

There are two sides, of course, to every quarrel. For some time writers have been insisting that some magazine editors scorn any short story that cannot be made into a profitable movie play, and that, therefore it may come to pass in time that authors, who must live—or think they must—will be able to sell stories capable of that transmutation.

But there is another question. Are the writers sure that, if they succeed in keeping control of the movie rights and profits, American literature will not suffer quite as much at their hands as at those of the ravaging editors?

There is no denying that the movie influence in literature has been overwhelming, for good or for evil. I know a man who sold a serial to a popular magazine for $10,000. He really wrote it with the movie rights in view and he did later sell those rights for $35,000 and a percentage of the gross receipts which brought his total up to $40,000.

Writers, of course, should view compulsion with lofty indifference. And yet writers must eat. (Voice: Who said so?) And it will be difficult for all of them to resist the temptation to seek the larger gain. In short, so long as the movie inducement is so great the great majority will write with the movie rights in view.

The song publishing business is as exciting as a rush to Klondike. There are now men in Tin Pan Alley known as "song explorers," who upon hearing of a new tune in any part of the world make a quick dash to get the American rights first. Broadway always has its ear to the rail for a new song. In Paris ten days ago a song was introduced in a music hall. A scout called to New York. The next day E. F. Blumer, head of a musical publishing house, was aboard a liner and the next day three other popular song men were sailing. Mr. Blumer has called that he won the race. The song is called "Mona Homme." Broadway awaits it with palpitation.

Those white-jacketed lads who deal off the arm in beereries which "watch your overcoat" is the password, are going to be in the swirl of society next season. When quitting time comes—provided the fresco of poached egg and stopped coffee isn't too thick on their coat fronts—they can stroll into the Ritz in their working clothes without exciting comment.

It is all because the New York Custom Cutters' Club, which dictates what a man shall look like south of the chin, has decreed that the white dinner coat shall henceforth be as fast on legs and a la mode. Accompanied by white waistcoat and tie, it is to be worn in all seasons.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

By W. G. SIBLEY

The Sibley Service, Gallipolis, Ohio

It Is Coming Now

For months after all stars pointed to lower prices as inevitable merchants held on as if determined to overstay their markets. When a wannabe, gave the high sign nearly a year ago, they scoffed and held on, only to get pinched later.

Now, with business confessedly on the increase, many shake their heads and see nothing but disaster. No need a little faith in our country. Its real sources and its people. Normal prices and good business are written on the skies of trade today to guide those who will believe their own eyes.

Business First

The first duty of man is to earn a living for himself and those he is responsible for. The old fallacy that the world owes every man a living, has long since blown up. Existence is the thing, all living beings must fight for first. It has grown easier and easier to live as mankind has become more and more intelligent in the production of the necessities of life.

But always and for everybody continues the fundamental fact that work is the only foundation for life. Somebody's work maintains every individual. The man who does not earn his own living is a parasite, and an able-bodied parasite is the most contemptible of creatures.

Business is organized work. It provides the ways and means for the existence of men. For this reason alone no business man need feel inferior to men in any other occupation.

Beer at the Soda Fountain

Former Attorney-General Palmer, commenting on his ruling that under the Volstead Act beer may be manufactured and sold for medicinal purposes, is quoted as saying that the sale of beer at soda fountains would not surprise, but that it would never happen over saloon bars.

Many people take their "salts" and other unpleasant medicines disguised by soda water and having. It may be true that druggists will be allowed to sell over their marble-topped fountain counters. But how long would soda thrive under such conditions? and how long would girls and women flock to the druggists for their soda refreshment? And how long would it take the average corner drug store to become to Mr. Palmer may be a humorist. If not, he has been articulating through his cheapen, and arousing false hopes in thirsty breasts.

Desire to Play Truant

A generation has grown from infancy to manhood, and young men have grown old along the banks of the upper Ohio river since the big line of paupered paupered by the encroaching railroads, but no man who has felt the charm of river travel finds an entirely satisfactory substitute for it.

We realized this acutely the other day when we saw in an inland paper the announcement of a trip by river from Cincinnati to New Orleans on one of the few large boats yet in commission. She is "on her way" now, full of fortunate people going south in springtime on the Mississippi, and stopping at those old river cities of historic interest—Memphis, Vicksburg, Natchez and Baton Rouge—while her passengers explore them.

It has been many years since we felt an insistent urge to cut and run for a two weeks quest, of pleasure, regardless of cost, or any other consideration, as came to us when this river trip came to our knowledge. But discipline, habit, and cold calculation held us steady, as it does all the trained workers. We all go on, year after year, denying ourselves this that, or the other joyous experience, until the time when we turn our faces to the wall, curl up, and die! Is it right? we wonder; are we valuing life's opportunities as we should? are we doing ourselves justice when we thrust those delightful episodes of existence which beckon us from our perpetual tasks? Who knows?

Mr. Gansaulus was one of many gifted Ohio men who have helped to make Chicago famous. The natural drift of Ohio men is toward Chicago, and has been since the Columbia Exhibition. Before that the big Ohio man usually migrated to the east while farmers went west.

Mr. Lansing's estimate of Mr. Wilson at the Peace Conference, printed in the Saturday Evening Post, is entirely courteous but plain-spoken. It seems fully justified by the facts.

WHO'S WHO

In The Days News

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

The latest appointment gossip in the national capital brings a brand-new name into the diplomatic field. It is rumored that William Randolph Hearst is being considered for the ambassadorship to Italy.

The rumor is not explicit as to whether the editor or if the suggestion comes from the appointing side or even if some mutual friend is responsible. Mr. Hearst is conscious of a great obligation to Hearst who he believes, influenced many Democratic votes in his direction.

President Harding

Mr. Harding, would like to do something for the editor to make amends for having appointed Hearst's two pet aversions to the cabinet, Secretary of State Hughes, who defeated Hearst for the New York governorship and Secretary of Commerce Hoover. William L. Hearst was born in San Francisco in 1863. He was a student at Harvard, 1882-5, and shortly thereafter he entered on a career of politics and journalism. He is now publisher of papers in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Atlanta, Chicago, Milwaukee, New York and Boston. He is also editor and publisher of several magazines.

Hearst was a member of congress from 1903 to 1907. He was the Democratic candidate for mayor of New York, on a municipal ownership ticket, in 1905, and on the Independence league ticket in 1909. In 1906 he ran for the New York governorship on the Independence league and Democratic tickets, but was defeated by Charles E. Hughes.

Q. What is the air pressure at a height of 6,000 feet? J. S.

A. The Geological Survey says that the air pressure at 6,000 feet is 80 percent of what it is at sea level, that is, from 11 to 12 pounds per square inch.

Q. What Government is in possession of Dechen? G. H. C.

A. The Czechoslovakian Legation says that the proper name for this town is Dechen. It is a large city on the former German frontier, belongs to Czechoslovakia, and contains its custom house.

Q. When was the song "Little Annie Rooney" published? F. H.

A. This song was published in 1889.

Q. What is the per capita wealth of the United States? D. M.

A. It has been estimated by the Federal Reserve Board that on September 1, 1920, the distribution of money in the country outside of the Federal Reserve system was $50.00 per capita. This put the general stock of money in the country on September 1, at $7,907,080,820, the amount held in the Treasury at $455,584,277, the amount being held by the Federal Reserve Banks at $4,749,081,065.

Q. Who offered prayer when the Pilgrims landed in this country? J. H. R.

A. Elder William Brewster led the Pilgrims in prayer upon their landing on the Massachusetts coast.

Q. Is nutria a genuine fur or is it an imitation of beaver? J. G.

A. Nutria is the trade name for the fur of the South American coypu. It is nearly allied to the beaver, some what smaller, and with a ratlike tail. It is dark brown, with a grayish muzzle and bright red incisors; the nostrils are very high, allowing it to breathe with only the tip of the nose above water. When the beaver became scarce nutria was in great demand for making hats, and the coypus were nearly exterminated.

Q. Under what rule is a man classed as a professional athlete? R. W.

A. A man is classed as a professional athlete when he accepts money for participating in any sport.

Q. Why is the American dollar worth more than the Mexican dollar? H. N. L.

A. The American silver dollar is worth more than the Mexican silver dollar because it is redeemable at its face value and is backed by gold in the United States Treasury. The Mexican dollar is worth only its bullion value.

Children should never be forced into a line of work for which they show an aptitude, according to Dr. Edward J. Kempf, a New York psycho-pedagogue and author, in an article in the New York Sun. "Many parents unwittingly warp their children's lives because they fail to realize the vital importance of letting the child pick its own natural bent," says Dr. Kempf, "and they hedge him in by don'ts and taboos to the sacrifice of his personality."
